Gifts Pour In For Tortured Girl

Locked Up In Cold Barn Near Warren

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Flowers, get well cards and money have poured in to Warren General Hospital from throughout Ohio for 18-year-old Frances Jean Carr. She is being treated for malnutrition and frostbite she claims she suffered from being locked in an unheated barn by her father and aunt.

Her father, Francis Carr, 44, and aunt, Janette Carr, 39, have pleaded innocent to charges of tormenting and torturing the girl, who claims they kept her locked up in the barn for days on end. The girl also says they would lock her up in the basement or in a metal trunk measuring 34 inches by 21 inches by 20 inches.

The punishment was because she refused to do housework and began last October, she said. She escaped from the locked barn last Tuesday and was taken to the hospital.

She is listed in satisfactory condition, but doctors say some of her frostbitten toes will have to be amputated.

Sgt. George Pipenur of the Trumbull County sheriff's department said he had an official record that the girl weighed about 155 pounds, compared with 78 pounds currently.

Deputy Judy Tolpa said records at Woodside Hospital in Youngstown showed the girl had been treated for mental depression and for being high-strung in January and March last year.

Deputy Tolpa said Woodside officials had recommended the girl be put in a foster home. Her mother is dead. She lived with her father and aunt and uncle in nearby Warren Township.

Officials at Warren General

LOCKED UP IN OHIO BARN. Frances Jean Carr, 18, Warren area girl, is suffering from frostbite, gangrene of the feet and malnutrition. Sheriff's deputies say the girl had been kept locked up in a tack room in a barn and much of the time was locked in a wood and metal box. Her father and his sister-in-law pleaded innocent to charges Wednesday of torturing the girl, who weighs only 78 pounds. (UPI Telephoto)

Hospital said the girl's spirits are rising. Nursing Supt. Mrs. Elea- nor Vugrinic said the girl was Carr, who is unemployed but grateful when even routine things

Corp. plant here, apparently has never been in police trouble before.

He and his sister-in-law were released under $1,500 bond each pending trial, although no trial date has been set. Jeanette is the wife of Carr's brother, Richard, and she and her husband live with the widower.

Francis Carr has three other children, a married daughter and two sons.

An official said the investigation into the case is continuing, and that there was no preliminary indication that Richard Carr participated in the torture of the girl.

Through the bitter winter experienced by Northern Ohio, Frances Jean apparently remained in the unheated barn. She wore ragged clothing. She escaped Tuesday by breaking a hole in the door of the tack room. Miller said she got a ride to the home of the Roy Minton family about two miles away. The Minton's, who knew the girl, notified authorities.

Frances Jean reportedly left school after completing the 10th or 11th grade, but there were conflicting reports that she quit or was told by her father to drop out of classes.

The box she was locked into at times was described as being of wood with a sheet metal - covered top. A hole about 3 by 5 inches was cut into the top for air. It was used for carrying trappings for horses, such as saddles and blankets.

Cpl. Miller said the girl "looked like a fugitive from a concentration camp." He said the only reason Carr indicated for keeping his daughter locked up was that "anything she'd do, she'd do wrong."

Security agents busied themselves with protective measures for President Kennedy and the five other chief executives.

But Orlich, in Costa Rican tradition, moved through crowds downtown Thursday night without a bodyguard or security agent, chatting informally with well-wishers.

Visiting the conference press center, he described Castroism as "a problem of the entire continent" and said Costa Rica favors collective action against the Castro regime.

But he added: "In the case of Costa Rica, our aid in putting an end to such a regime can only be moral aid. (Costa Rica's only army is a 1,200 man police force.)

In defense of western culture the real leader must be the leader of the United States, who in this case is President Kennedy.

Orlich said next week's three-day meeting, opening Monday, must produce effective results, not mere words.

"We expect substantial aid for economic development with each country contributing its share. We must take the administrative and tax reforms agreed upon at the Alliance for Progress meeting in Punta del Este, Uruguay, and we expect aid from international agencies so we can effect most rapidly the social revolution needed to contain the spread of communism.

"The emphasis here will be on the economic integration of Central America. We have cost estimates of economic projects ready to present to President Kennedy, but I cannot reveal them now."

At stake are 65,000 jobs, including those of 40,000 firemen which the railroads say are unnecessary for the operation of modern rail equipment. The U.S. Supreme Court held March 4 the carriers could make the changes.

Wirtz said it will take until March 29 for the Supreme Court decision regarding the dispute to become effective. Until then an injunction is outstanding against the carriers' putting into effect their desired manpower cuts to eliminate what they term featherbedding.

The latest efforts to reach agreement collapsed Wednesday after a 90-minute session. A move from Washington to get both sides back to the bargaining table and avert a possible national rail strike had been regarded as certain.

We Know The Pattern Well

There is one school of thought about the great ideological conflict that says similarities are more important than disparities.

Some of its far-ranging pupils are speaking of the possibility (they think of it as a probability, really) that the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics will tend to copy each other as the inevitable consequence of their intense rivalry.

They go to the extreme of speculating that this inclination to copy—the same inclination that prompts competing units in business to become more and more alike—finally may carry the United States leftward and the Soviet Union rightward.

But this is speculative. Meanwhile, the Russians are doing something they must have copied from us. The pattern is familiar. We know it well.

WHEN THEY have trouble, they set up a new commission on top of an old one, with more important names and new and expanded directives.

The first national administration to use the commission system of sidestepping tough problems was Herbert Hoover's. President Hoover appointed commissions to study public problems, as has every administration since his. For example, there was the Wickes Commission, which came up with the wrong answer to the bootlegging problem during the waning days of prohibition, but it was the official answer at the moment Mr. Hoover got stuck with it.

Franklin D. Roosevelt specialized in a layer-on-layer method of easing executive commissions out of existence. Whenever one executive commission bogged down he built another on top of it, naming more important people and bestowing wider authority, whereupon the old commission weakened and died.

IT IS NOT surprising, therefore, that Russians now are being assured that a new Supreme National Economic Council headed by Premier Khrushchev will do everything that hasn't been done by all its predecessors which have coped with agricultural ills and industrial stagnation.

This is the way it is done by bureaucratic government. This endless grouping and regrouping is part of the pattern.

It is useful for concealing the fact that something is basically wrong.

It gives the bureaucrats protective cover and coloration while they wrack their brains for new gimmicks.

Now that we know the Russians are as addicted to it as we are, we'll give longer odds than ever they'll not bury us. It's a poor way to run a government.

Not Quite That Simple

We are at a loss to explain why The Associated Press went through the process of rediscovering the information about the Bessemer-Kelly squabble. All of it has been told before—and isn't as simple as an AP account filed from Kuttawa, Ky.

This account says Kentucky's William Kelly stumbled on what ultimately was known as the Bessemer converter when his iron furnace overheated and he learned about the air-boiling method of converting pig iron into steel.

Two English helpers, says the account, made their way home and subsequently Sir Henry Bessemer of England was granted, first an English, then a U.S. patent on Kelly's idea. The implication is that the Bessemer converter was Kelly's idea, unjustly credited to Bessemer. In "The Making, Shaping and Treating of Steel," published by U.S. Steel Corp., this version is given:

The Kelly discovery and the Bessemer discovery were concurrent. The Bessemer patent was issued in 1856. When Kelly proved he had worked on the idea as early as 1847, both men shared the patent credit, but the Bessemer invention was developed more aggressively and successfully than the Kelly invention, thus making it the one that became familiar to steel producers here and in England.

Finally There Comes A Day

Never in recent years has weather made more news than it made this winter, beginning early in December and still going strong.

It is well to be forewarned in this climate that weather developments in the latter half of March and all of April compare with the most sensational developments in December, January, February and early March.

But finally there comes a day in March when a pedestrian strolls a few blocks with

Down The Hatch

Everybody keeps shaking his head about the way automated Frankenstein's are gobbling up jobs and muttering, "And these machines have no buying power, remember."

This makes it a straightforward proposition. With 6 per cent of the U.S. working force already at liberty and unemployment growing larger all the time, who is going to take up the slack in the purchase of consumer goods?

With millions buying only what little they afford out of their unemployment compensation and relief allotments, the prospect of still more automation and unemployment gives a sales manager the fantods. Surpluses will pile up faster than they can be given away under the foreign aid program.

But is not the solution to this worrisome problem in plain sight?

We need to make the automated machines consume goods faster than the men and women they displaced. If a new gadget takes the place of 100 human consumers, the gadget should take up the slack by becoming a consumer goods consumer itself.

This will keep unemployment from multiplying the way it did a third of a century ago when nobody wanted anything from anybody anymore so everybody had to quit working at the same time.

A little boy in the balcony asks how you turn Blinky the electronic Frankenstein into a consumer. It is a fair question, sonny. With an easy answer.

There is this little trap door on Blinky's posterior, see. Inside it is a garbage grinder and incinerator combined.

Each day the equivalent of everything not being consumed by the people Blinky displayed is dumped through the little trap door and consumed as truly as if real men and women had consumed it.

Automobiles, boats, furniture, clothing, groceries and strong drink will go through the trap door. Consumption will be complete. No odds and ends will be left, which will make this kind of consumption more efficient than the old-fashioned kind.

Birthday Greeting

American Legion posts in the East Liverpool area are joining others throughout the world today in observance of the 44th birthday of the organization.

It was on March 15, 1919, in Paris that a small group of World War I veterans gathered and united "for God and country".

As of last Dec. 31, the organization's official membership stood at 2,635,624, with indications pointing to a continued increase this year.

The Legion's founders dedicated themselves to these four programs: Americanism, child welfare, rehabilitation and national security. The district posts have done their part in keeping these objectives alive.

his coat unbuttoned and a motorist thinks about taking off the snow tires.

A kid wonders about kites and baseballs, a girl looks ahead to changing into summer clothes and a housewife murmurs about new wallpaper. Seed catalogs are looked at and vacation plans are discussed seriously.

Without this boost to morale, life in the North Temperate Zone would become intolerable. It had been close to the breaking point when the temperature began to rise and the roads began to sink.

By Truman Twill

Automated consumption will match automated production!

Down the hatch and away we go!

There will be none of the whimsy that can make millions of people consumers decide not to buy and throw production into a tailspin.

Neither will there be any of the frenzied buying that stirs up purchasing cyclones and spirals of wild inflation. Automated consumers will be steady and reliable. They will consume what it is necessary for them to consume, or else.

If there is a glut of butter, they will consume more butter. Or potatoes. Or cotton. Or left-over automobiles. They will put the last touch on automation. Automated production, mechanical vending and automated consuming.

Who will pay for all this? Who but the dear people, who ultimately pay for everything? Yes, but by that time all the people will have been replaced by machines, won't they?

Exactly. But the people will own the machines, see? If they are wealthy, they will own many machines. If poor, they will own only a share of one machine. You see, if the people didn't own the machines, that would be either socialism or oligarchism, and no one wants either of them in the good old U.S.A.

What we want is affluent living.

The Republic of the Philippines, which gained full independence on July 4, 1946, has some 7,110 islands, with more than 4,500 of the smaller ones still unnamed. Discovered by Magellan in 1521, the Philippines for more than 300 years were part of Spain's vast empire, and then were ceded to the U.S. in 1898.

Unions Face Negro Worker Issue

By Victor Riesel

Both men held rights to the process in the United States.

As with most processes that evolve out of necessity for finding a better way to do something that many people are trying to do, both Kelly and Bessemer were thinking about the same thing at the same time.

It never was proved that Bessemer had any help from Kelly's two English "helpers." Even if he had help, this would have had no bearing on his application for patents, first in England, later in the United States.

Speaking privately, as much in anger as in sorrow, one of the highest administration policy makers had just said that the White House now will move quickly for a "conciliation" with the House of Labor to force many unions to practice what they preach on the race issue—especially in the nation's capital city.

What has irritated Robert and John Kennedy is the apparent inability of the national union chiefs to convince thousands of regional labor leaders—especially some in this supposedly show-piece capital—to admit Negroes and permit them to work on federally financed projects.

If there are no results from the confrontation, the government could—and probably would—order the construction firms to go outside union ranks to hire Negro workers. Bluntly this would mean ordering the employment of nonunion labor on traditionally unionized jobs.

Naturally the building and construction local unions would strike. But the government is preparing for this.

FEDERAL LAWYERS have been directed to search the law to make possible court injunctions to prevent such strike action.

The theory is that the unions could be ordered by the court not to interfere with directives of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity. Its chairman is Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Thus the sacred right to strike would be smashed. But there is no way out. The government has the power to force corporations to hire Negroes but no power to force unions to admit them.

What is building a sociological warhead under this issue right now is the construction of a $2.6 million gymnasium at the Negro Howard University.

Government money is going into this Negro athletic hall but it is being built by white labor. These construction workers belong to four unions—the Sheet Metal Workers Local 102, the Steamfitters Local 602, the Plumbers Union Local 5 and the Interna-

Uncertainty Seen In Cuban Policy Of U.S.

Why has it taken five months for the American people to be told just what the policy of the United States government is toward the Soviet military activity in Cuba? Why was it necessary for members of Congress of both parties to keep prodiging the administration before a clear-cut statement of the intentions of the United States became available in the form of a speech by Secretary of State Dean Rusk this week? These questions are being asked on Capitol Hill but haven't as yet been answered.

State Department officials have been repeatedly denied that any pledge against invasion was given and have said that any proposals along this line were dependent upon acceptance by Moscow of Washington's demand for "on-site inspection" to verify whether the Soviet weapons had been withdrawn.

But Mr. Kennedy, in a television appearance on Dec. 17, 1962, told a nationwide audience that he didn't really expect the Russians to agree to "on-site inspection," because he felt that a "totalitarian system cannot accept the kind of inspection which really is desirable."

Now that Secretary Rusk considers that Soviet Troops and technicians in Cuba could be used in an "offensive" action against Latin-American countries and says that the United States will use force to prevent any such action, there are members of Congress who wonder why a quarantine of ships carrying strategic supplies to Cuba can't be undertaken at once without involving "an act of war."

SECRETARY RUSK made one comment in his speech which will add to the emotions of the political debate. He injected, perhaps unwittingly, a partisan note when he said that "having failed to take the steps that might have prevented in years past the establishment of a Marxist-Leninist regime in Cuba, the problem of finding a cure is more difficult."

It will be recalled that in October 1960, after many vigorous protests, our ambassador was recalled from Havana, an embargo was placed on most exports to Cuba, and the Organization of American States was alerted to the growing capacity of Cuba "to give armed support to the spread of its revolution in other parts of the Americas."

Finally, on Jan. 3, 1961, diplomatic relations with Cuba were severed by the Eisenhower administration. The massive military build-up which finally brought matters to a climax didn't really begin, however, until early 1962—after the Kennedy administration had been in power for more than a year.

When the military threat arose, the "cure" came clearly into view—to rid Cuba of Soviet armament and troops by whatever means are necessary.

Editor of The Review:

I would like to clear up a statement I made the latter part of last week.

I said that the county appraiser was never in or around or about my house. The statement is true since I bought the house in 1962. The county tax survey was made between the years 1959-61. I went over to the county courthouse and was told this by Mr. Kenneth Bell, county auditor.

Mr. Bell also illustrated for me 10 to 15 cards were property owners signed each individual card representing their property, which was appraised. Mr. Bell, please accept my apology for my ignorance of this.

But this does not alter the fact that some of the property was over appraised and the taxes too high.

In every election there is a levy representing so many mills, such as mills or 3-10 of a penny. This represents little in the mind of the individual, but when he pays his taxes it is $30 on the $1,000 evaluation.

When you go to the auditor to complain, he'll tell you, "Well, you voted for it."

Your taxes will be raised again in 1968 because the taxes are based on building supplies and labor costs between the years 1962-68 at 40 per cent of the appraised price of your home.

At this rate we will be giving two-thirds of our income for asserted taxes and subsist on the rest. We have got to draw the line somewhere.

By the way, Mr. Bell, I was told the tax appraisal survey cost us taxpayers $180,000.

The reappraisal did cost about $180,000, including the valuation of commercial and industrial properties by a private concern in localities served by carrier delivery.

Enumerators Employed By School Board

MIDDLETON — Mrs. Janet Kelsar was hired as enumerator for Fairfield Township and Mrs. Martha Hawkins for part of Unity Township at a meeting of the Fairfield - Waterford School District Board of Education Thursday night.

Miss Karen Peterson of Cuyahoga Falls was hired as a speech-hearing therapist for the district in 1963-64 on a share basis with Beaver Local District. Fairfield will pay two-fifths of her salary and will receive 40 per cent of her services.

She was hired in place of another woman who had been approved but who decided to accept a post elsewhere.

The board discussed school legislation proposed in the Ohio General Assembly, and took formal stand opposing Senate Bill 234 which would permit school districts to levy income taxes up to 1 per cent. Board members said they believe the move puts more tax burden on local districts rather than the state, and said many other states provide a larger share of education aid than in Ohio.

The board also is in favor of the state providing specific funds for driver training.

In other action the board reduced the price of milk at the schools from 3 cents a half pint to 2½ cents as a result of a state requirement that the board not make more than 1 cent profit on a half pint.

The board also officially approved a reduction of $14,206 in the general fund budget for 1963 as a result of revisions made by state authorities. The change cuts the fund back to $351,196, but is not expected to result in significant revisions of the school operations, Joe Driscoll, executive head said.

The cutback stemmed from the state's estimate that the tax valuation will be trimmed back about $150,000 due to appeals and revisions, and the requirement that the tax collections will come to 97 per cent of the total rather than 100 per cent as estimated by county officials.

Bond retirement payments and cafeteria allotments are not affected by the changes, Driscoll said.

Driscoll and Harold Gray, board member, reported on their attendance at the American Association of School Administrators at Atlantic City in February.

Gus Fegert of New Waterford was top bidder at $51 for a used auto obtained a number of years ago for driver training. A car agency provides a driver training car at present.

Wayne Rupert, president, was in charge. Next meeting is April 11.

Charge Filed After Mishap

A charge was filed against a woman driver by police as an aftermath of a two - car collision Thursday afternoon at a North Side intersection.

The mishap at 12:30 p. m. on Anderson Blvd. near McKinnon Ave. involved a backing 1957 two-door sedan driven by Lois Marie O'Rourke, 26, of rear 1102 Riverview St. and a halted 1952 sedan operated by Tony Peterlin, 59, of 195 Charles St., Beechwood, officers said.

The woman's car drifted backward, scraping the entire left side of Peterlin's car and also scraping the right door and right rear quarter panel of the O'Rourke vehicle, officers said.

A charge of improper backing was filed against the woman driver. As Municipal Court is not in session today, the case probably will be heard Monday.

The woman told police her auto stalled and she tried unsuccessfully to start it again. She said her car then drifted backward, hitting Peterlin's auto, which was halted at the rear.

A collision on Bradshaw Ave. 20 feet south of Ambrose Ave. at 1:30 a. m. today damaged a parked car—and possibly two.

Dust which flew from underneath the wheels of a car ahead was a contributing factor, according to the driver, Dorothy Raye Howard, 30, of 325 East Alley.

She said she was driving up-grade on Bradshaw and a car ahead was throwing dirt and dust into the air, which then hit her windshield.

The woman said she stepped on the brake pedal to slow and her foot slipped off and hit the accelerator, causing her car to hit a parked 1959 four-door owned by Willis W. Campbell, 1030 Bradshaw Ave.

Patrolman Ronald J. Brookes, who investigated, said it appeared the Howard car also hit a parked 1953 four-door owned by Albert J. Rodenhausen, 1034 Bradshaw Ave. He said it appeared the Howard auto first hit the Campbell car and then glanced into the Rodenhausen car. It said there was damage to the right door and rear of the Howard car; the left front of the Campbell car and the left rear of the Rodenhausen auto.

Al Dorow, former Michigan State quarterback, still holds the Spartan pass completion record. He completed 64 passes in 1951.

K. Of C. Unit Plans Degree

Degree exemplification for candidates at Youngstown was discussed at a meeting of the Cardinal Mercier Assembly of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus Thursday night at the Wellsville Hotel. Joseph J. O'Hanlon, navigator, presided.

The event will be held May 4-5 and the assembly has reserved rooms at the Pick-Ohio Hotel in Youngstown as its headquarters.

Members of the local assembly who desire to purchase banquet tickets for the event are to contact Fred Baldasare of Wellsville or Francis Schleuter of Negley.

The group has accepted an invitation to provide a Fourth Degree honor guard for Bishop Emmet M. Walsh, who will administer the sacrament of confirmation on a class of candidates April 7 at 7:30 p. m. at the St. George Catholic Church at Lisbon. The invitation was extended by Fr. William H. Hohman, pastor of the Lisbon church.

Father Receives 2 Months In Jail

LISBON — William H. Cantwell, 43, of East Palestine R. D. 1 was ordered to serve two months in the County Jail Thursday when he appeared before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin on a charge of contributing to the neglect of his seven children ranging from one to 14.

Cantwell had been before Judge Tobin previously on charges of allowing his family to live in unclean surroundings and without sufficient food. The case was revived last week when a 13-year-old daughter went to school with a bandaged hand and related the injury resulted when a rat bit her while she was asleep.

Cantwell was sentenced after investigation of the home showed no improvement from a prior check, the court said. Cantwell was sentenced to six months in jail, but the court suspended four months and ordered that the children will be turned over to the care of the County Welfare Department.

The welfare department will retain custody of the children until the father is released and "shows a better and cleaner home" for the children, the court said. The court also ordered Cantwell to support the children when he is released from jail and the youngsters are returned to his custody.

bert King told the court that although the indictments are silent on some matters, they are specific on other points.

King cited various federal statutes and cases in support of his argument to have the defense motion overruled. Judge Paul said he would render an opinion on the motion as soon as circumstances permit.

In the meantime, the jurist reminded attorneys that Monday is the date for filing motions for suppression of evidence, and that arguments will be held next Thursday.

A surprise move by the defense Thursday morning was the revelation that the defendants have agreed to waive their rights to a jury trial subject to Judge Paul's ruling on motions submitted.

The jurist said the waiver request was a surprise and that they wanted to consider it before issuing a decision, and that he is sure the government would want to do the same.

Gilbert Bachmann, a defense attorney, made a formal motion that trial dates for the defendants be shifted to April 1.

Mayor Harry Abrams said the meeting was designed to acquaint the board with the engineering problems and costs connected with such projects.

33-Mile Hike Set By Group At Wellsville

Two ex-GI's from Wellsville will get back into the "hup, two, three, four" swing of Army life Saturday morning and their mission appears a rugged one.

George Lawton, ex-paratrooper, and Kyle Baker, former infantry squadman, will lead an assault of several hundred students and adults on a 33-mile hike.

They said today that the hike through Columbian County, twice postponed because of snow and rain, will be held tomorrow in the event of favorable weather and the forecast calls for "warmer" temperatures.

The hikers will assemble at Raodside Park and depart at 9.

The trip will follow Routes 45 and 30 to Lisbon, then from Route 164 to Lisbon to the Y near Sallieville, and from there along Route 39 back to Wellsville.

Tentative plans have been made for the hikers to halt for lunch at Isaly's in Lisbon about 12:15 or 12:30.

Plans for the hike were announced today in Wellsville schools. Both Lawton and Baker are instructors at Daw Junior High School.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, for the third year in a row, showed up Thursday night at the St. Patrick's Day party given every year by Rep. Michael J. Kennedy.

Kennedy, recognized as an Irishman by one and all, strode into the gala gathering at the Statler-

Most of the partygoers were members of Congress or high officials of the judiciary and executive branches.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Poor Reader Needs Parental Help

Some children who talk well and display considerable information at home and at school are very poor readers. They pick up this information from what they hear. Therefore, they may be rated high in elementary science and social science by their teachers. Some parents may overlook this reading problem until quite late. From Nebraska, a mother writes: "We have a son who is eight years old and in the third grade. He cannot read simple words at all; he doesn't seem to remember them or will say words that are not even in a sentence or leave some out — words like 'an', 'and', 'the', 'them', 'then' and so on."

He is good in arithmetic, science and social studies. His teacher tells me that if he could read, he'd be a very good student, because he has a wonderful memory. When a story is read to him, he can tell it back almost word for word but does not know how to read. He doesn't like to read and puts forth no effort to try it."

My reply in part:

First check to ascertain if the boy is familiar with all the letters of the alphabet.

Practice him on words in which "c" sounds like "k" as "cat", "can", "car"; then on words in "city", "cent", "lace".

HAVE HIM SEE these words in groups as you pronounce and spell them for him and he then does likewise. It would be fine if you drew or helped him find pictures of each of these words.

Also, you might have him cut from old newspapers groups of words beginning with the same letter and sound such as "boat", "box", "bam", "ball" and "paw", "pail", "pear", "pig", "pole". With this practice, he should learn to look at the initial letter or letters of each word and get their sounds.

He has more trouble with the short words you named because he does not look carefully at them and doesn't get their meaning. He can't get imaginary pictures of what they mean.

Prevail on him to read from easier materials than his regular school books. For this, choose a book with many pictures and short sentences.

As you read a great deal to him, run your finger along under some of the short words which often give him trouble. Sometimes you should go back and do this after having read a few sentences.

AS HE READS a sentence or two to you, have him tell in his own words what it said. Sometimes ask him a question before he begins to read an easy paragraph and have him find the answer in what he reads.

Keep practicing him on a easy reading matter which is not babyish. Aim to help him succeed. Give him such help when no other child is present. Also read with him his assignments in science, history, geography and the like.

My bulletins, "Helping Child at Home in Early Steps of Reading", "Home Helps for Poor Readers" and "Home Fun with Phonics", may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Okay To Sell Negro A Home In White Area, Realtors Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Association of Real Estate Boards has made it clear—for the first time—that it is no violation of the realtors code of ethics to sell a Negro family a home in a previously all-white neighborhood.

Until about 15 years ago, the NAREB code of ethics specified that a realtor should not sell to a nonwhite person in an all-white neighborhood.

The change in view is evident in a revision of the code and an association book interpreting it, distributed to local real estate boards.

As revised, Article 5 of the code of ethics now reads:

"The realtor should not be instrumental in introducing into a neighborhood a character of property or use which will clearly be detrimental to property values in that neighborhood."

The NAREB book interpreting the code was distributed to local boards early this year—the first time this had been done.

One case, illustrating Article 5,

Probers Irked At Challenge From Newspaper Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—House

Antitrust investigators, irked by what they regard as a challenge from the newspaper industry to their authority, have called an industry spokesman back for more questioning today.

Stanford Smith, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, raised the hackles of members of the antitrust subcommittee Thursday by seeking to impose limits on the subcommittee's investigation of the concentration of ownership in news media.

Speaking for an organization representing the nation's major publishers and backed by an 18-page legal brief, Smith told the subcommittee it would be clearly unconstitutional for Congress to enact any special legislation aimed at curbing newspaper mergers.

"The First Amendment guarantees the press an immunity from governmental interference not given to any other profit-making private enterprise," said Smith, provoking Rep. George Meader, R-Mich., to inquire.

"Would it be fair to say the ANPA is 'taking the first'?"

Smith and the ANPA legal counsel, Arthur B. Hanson, argued that although the press is subject to general antitrust laws in its business practices, the constitutional guarantees of a free press pre-

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: When I read letters in your column from teen-agers who gripe because their parents are too strict I become so envious I can hardly stand it.

I'm a 17-year-old girl who may as well be an orphan. My folks don't care what I do. I can go any place, with anyone, at any time. No questions ever are asked.

I've tried to talk to my mother about my boy friends but she doesn't even listen. This morning, as an experiment, I said to her, "I sure had a good time last night. Bill and I went to Indiana and got married."

She said, "Oh, that's nice." As usual, she wasn't listening and didn't pay any attention to what I had said.

All teen-agers need rules to follow. It makes them feel as though somebody really cares about them. I'd give anything if my folks acted like parents instead of strangers who live in the house and pay the bills.—FREEDOM UNLIMITED.

Dear Unlimited: You've got a smart head on those 17-year-old shoulders. I hope your message gets through to teen-agers and parents. Thanks for writing.

Hints from Heloise

—By Heloise Crane—

Ladies, we have never tried an Irish potato. However, our writing friend does come from Ireland, with a hint for removing grease spots from shoes.

One woman did write recently that she worked in a shoe factory and often grease from the machines got on the shoes while manufacturing them.

She said that the factory used rubber cement and applied it with a brush. They allowed it to dry thoroughly and the rubber cement could be peeled or rubbed off by hand.

It's fabulous! We found it does work but old stubborn stains need more than one coat and the quicker you use this method after you get a spot of grease on your shoes, the better it works!

We literally spotted a pair of our shoes with bacon grease (don't you dare try this — you may ruin a good pair of shoes) and then applied this rubber cement type glue. We left it on overnight. This much time isn't necessary as all one has to do is wait until the glue hardens and the solvent in the glue evaporates. It may take more than one application.

Just thought we should pass this idea on in case of emergency. Since the factory uses it, why shouldn't we try it?

Now here's the potato method.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: I remove grease spots from my shoes by rubbing the spots with a piece of raw potato and leaving the shoes until dry. Then I apply shoe polish and shine in the normal way.

This is an old Irish method of overcoming this difficulty.

H. MAC ILROSE

DEAR HELOISE: Here is how I remove my rust stains: I take an equal portion of salt and cream of tartar and rub it on the wet rust-stained washable garment. I put this in the sun. It removes all of my rust spots.

The results which I received by using this mixture were so amazing that I wanted to pass this good hint along to other housewives.

FRANCES STRURA

DEAR HELOISE: About those stainless steel sink stains . . . waitresses have long ago learned that the steel brightens in a jiffy when washed with carbonated water from the soda fountain.

2 Ohio Women Convicted Of Armed Robbery

SOMERSET, Ky. (AP) — Two Ohio women have been convicted of armed robbery by a jury which fixed their sentences at life imprisonment.

Barbara Russell, 24, fainted when the Pulaski Circuit Court jury of seven men and five women announced the verdict Thursday after deliberating for more than two hours.

Miss Russell and Mrs. Roy Gill, 25, were convicted of charges stemming from the robbery and slaying last Christmas night of Murrell Trimble, a Somerset television repairman.

Mrs. Gill's husband, convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment for the killing, testified Wednesday for the prosecution. Gill said he had been drinking and did not remember what happened.

The women said they arranged a roadside meeting with Trimble via telephone, then heard shots while Gill was talking with Trimble in another car.

Defense attorneys said the verdict would be appealed.

For the first time the state's Southeast Panhandle has a highway—a marine highway.

Eventually to be joined by the motor vessels Taku and Matanuska, the Malaspina started her first run from Prince Rupert, B.C.

The 450-mile route from Prince Rupert, the southern terminus of the new system, to historic Skagway, the northern terminus, includes stops at Ketchikan, Wrangell, Petersburg, Sitka, Juneau and Haines.

The remaining two ships are under construction at the Puget Sound Bridge and Drydock Co.

Wing Eyed For Southern Local School

Addition of a 12-room seventh and eighth grade wing at the new Southern Local High School near Salineville was taken under study by the Board of Education at a special meeting Thursday night.

Construction of the new addition, in order to provide a centralized seventh and eighth grade program, was recommended by Jack Baker, executive head, who said it would mean improved academic facilities for students in those grades.

Some 232 pupils are now in seventh and eighth grade classes at Highlandtown, Salineville, Wayne, Franklin and No. 16 schools.

The new addition would cost between $200,000 and $250,000, and the board was asked to consider placing a bond issue up for a vote in the November election.

Such an addition would change the Southern Local present 8 elementary-4 secondary program to a 6-6 plan.

The new addition would be erected as an east wing of the new $784,000 high school along Route 39 now under construction and to be opened next September.

Plans for the one-story structure were displayed by Robert Beatty, East Liverpool architect.

Officials said it is uncertain whether any state aid would be available for the project.

Baker cited the expanding pupil population of the district as an additional factor supporting plans for the addition.

Dinner Held At Midland

Legion Post Marks Anniversaries

HAPPY LEGION BIRTHDAY. Midland American Legion Post 481 celebrated its 35th birthday and the 44th of the national organization at a dinner Thursday night at the post home. William M. Riddle, commander, gets ready to slice the birthday cake as Truman E. Rodfong, post adjutant and a charter member, on the left and Fritz Morley of Barnesboro, past department vice commander, and John Waddingham, first vice commander, smile happily. In the rear are Ernest Watson of Industry and Fred Mullin, a past commander, both 35-year members of the post. Waddingham is wearing one of the gray jackets presented to 12 members on a merit system based on Legion activities.

Presentation of awards and jackets featured the dinner of Midland American Legion Post 481 Thursday night, observing the post's 35th anniversary and the 44th of the national unit.

Three achievement awards were given for securing the most new members and 12 jackets were awarded members under the post's merit system for Legion activities highlighted the affair.

The gray jackets bearing the Legion insignia and the first names of the recipients were distributed by John Waddingham, Fritz Morley of Barnesboro, first vice commander and membership chairman. Winning the jackets were William Coble, William M. Riddle, post commander, Joseph Mulach, Woodrow Pflug, Leonard Castellano, Waddingham, Mark Pike, Harry Hulton, Woodrow Jones, Truman E. Rodfong, Lester Barr and George Yuha.

Hulton received a gold medal, Rodfong won a silver medal and Charles Cover was presented with a bronze award for signing up the most members. The presentations were made by Riddle.

Hulton and Jones were in charge of dinner arrangements.

Council Acts On Midland's Air Pollution

A study committee was appointed and protests authorized after renewed complaints at Midland Council Thursday night that industries are causing air pollution with smoke and dirt.

James Mullen, staff representative of the Midland Steelworkers Union, blamed the Crucible Steel Co. and the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. for failure to take any action to control the pollution. Numerous protests have been made in the past year.

Referring to Crucible's current time study at the Midland Works, Mullen declared "they are paying $25,000 a day to make the men work faster but won't do anything to clean up the place."

He urged Council to use any power available to force some sort of remedy.

William Vinovich, president, appointed a committee consisting of Councilmen Joseph D'Alesio, William Shovlin and Raymond Preissuti to study the situation.

Council also instructed Atty. Robert Masters, solicitor, to prepare a formal protest to be presented to the Smoke Control and Air Pollution Commissions in both Harrisburg and Washington.

D'Alesio remarked, "this is the only way we can get anything done."

Preissuti asked the solicitor for a ruling on the legality of the borough ashing Route 168 all the way to the state line during snowy weather.

It was pointed out that since this is a state road, Midland might not have the authority. It was suggested that an arrangement might be worked out whereby Midland could cinder the stretch and be reimbursed by the state.

Council approved a request from the Midland Chamber of Commerce that "no parking" signs be erected in the area where the TB-X-ray bus is to park when it visits Midland April 2. The Chamber also expressed thanks for Council's $100 donation for the Christmas lighting fund.

Council voted to send a letter of congratulations to Coach (Hank) Kuzma and the Midland High Leopards for their fine basketball season and also to the Aliquippa squad, which defeated Midland in the WPIAL tournament in Pittsburgh.

Bills were ordered paid as submitted.

Repair Slated For River Rd.

The next phase of a general street patching program will include repairs on the River Rd., Safety - Service Director Robert Owen said today.

Some 400 invitations will be placed in the mail March 27, with the reservation deadline April 17.

Terming it a "great success," Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, co-chairman of the committee along with Mrs. Dorothy Horsley, reported a net profit of approximately $560 from the benefit card party which the center sponsored Feb. 23 at the Country Club.

Cornell Monda, the center's psychologist, reported 217 testings at the center from Sept. 15, 1962, through last March 12. He said referrals came from parents, grandparents, case workers, city nurse, court cases, physicians, ministers, teachers, school principals and others.

He reported a "healthy trend" in the work, with more and more parents spontaneously calling for the services of the center.

Judge Louis Tobin, chairman of the board, presided at last night's meeting.

"It won't be a beautiful boulevard, but it will be a lot smoother than it was," the director commented.

Repair already has been completed on holes on Lisbon St. and Shadyside Ave., Owen added.

The street department also is continuing work on unimproved streets, using slag to fill the worst of the chuckholes.

Its trucks are scheduled to go to the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. Saturday to haul a new supply of ashes, Owen said.

The city started on the street repair program Wednesday, concentrating all available men on the work on both improved and unimproved streets. By Saturday, the repair work will be finished to the extent that some of the workers will be able to return to routine assignments Monday - tasks such as clearing gutters and unblocking sewers, the director said.

Damage was moderate.

McCall Won't Resign . . .

The Beaver Local Board of Education at its regular meeting last Monday night expressed dissatisfaction with the basketball program at the school.

Tom McCall, head basketball coach, commented: "Tuesday morning, I was told by Dr. George Van Horne, executive head, that the Board of Education agreed not to renew my contract for next season because they lack confidence in my ability as a coach and that the team did not show any improvement."

"I was given a chance to resign, but I will not resign. I am not a quitter and I can't see any reason for my resigning. I made one mistake this season, I didn't win enough games."

"There is more to coaching than just winning and losing, and I teach my kids not to quit, and I feel I should follow the same pattern."

"I tried to develop character, sportsmanship and stressed scholastic achievement. I didn't have any discipline problems during the season and not one of my players was scholastically ineligible."

"I feel the overall aim of any athletic program is the total development of the boy and a coach's success shouldn't be measured on how many games he wins and losses."

Beaver Local finished with a 1-18 record this past season, following a 5-14 mark during McCall's first year as head coach in the 1961-62 season.

Beaver Local has had only one winning season in seven years of basketball (1960-61) when the school showed a 12-6 record. Since the school played its first regular basketball schedule in 1956-57, the schedule has been crowded with much stronger competition.

'No Consideration Shown' . . .

McCALL continued: "I am upset with the way the board handled the situation. I am not fighting the right of the board to fire me or the decision which was reached."

"I am not trying to get my job back because I am leaving, but out of this I hope the board and administration learns that coaches and teachers are due a certain amount of respect and consideration and they may benefit from the handling of my situation."

"I was asked to remain as a teacher, but I'm not going to remain at Beaver Local due to the lack of consideration shown to me. I wasn't asked to attend the Board of Education meeting and I feel since the discussion concerned my job I at least thought it merited my being invited to be present to defend my basketball program and answer any question the board might have."

"Since the board took action against me I feel it is their duty to state in the newspaper why I was fired."

A look at the 1962-63 record shows in the last seven games McCall's team doubled its point output.

He started the season with only two lettermen and lacked size and was very weak on experience.

McCall related that "at no time during the season was I informed by any member of the board that they were not satisfied with my work."

More action on the issue is expected at the next Board of Education meeting March 25.

There Are Sellouts . . .

We have heard of sellouts, but never actually had witnessed one until Tuesday night at the Civic Arena in Pittsburgh.

There are usually a few tickets to be purchased from scalpers. There were almost 11,000 people crammed into the spacious dome-shaped Arena and another 3,000 to 4,000 basketball fans milled around outside without a pasteboard. We didn't see one ticket sold outside.

The interesting thing about the WPIAL finals, which had big John Naponick as its attraction, was that some critics had felt that if WPIAL officials moved the championship game to the Arena, it wouldn't fill the big sports palace. They were dead wrong.

If space would have allowed, the official attendance could have hit 14,000 to 15,000.

The WPIAL finals drew 2,000 more than the NCAA tripleheader at Philadelphia Monday night.

McIntire Honored . . .

ONE OF the most popular persons in Eastlake, a Cleveland suburb, is Vic McIntire, native of Wellsville.

The townspeople of Eastlake think enough of McIntire, who is the head football and baseball coach there, that last month the Chamber of Commerce presented Vic with an "honorary citizenship award".

McIntire's name was suggested by 10 Eastlake residents, who pointed out that the football coach had brought championship honors to North High School twice during the past two years.

Their nominating letter stated "through example and kind understanding, has converted many potential juvenile delinquents into outstanding athletes and good scholars".

McIntire put Eastlake teams on the map by winning the conference twice. He went to the Cleveland area school in 1957 when it opened.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan McIntire, 914 Center St., Wellsville. His father is an avid sports fan.

Oklahoma U. Visits Area . . .

BUD CRONIN, a former all-state basketball player in West Virginia when he performed for Parkersburg High, was in the area this week, representing the University of Oklahoma.

Cronin, who has relatives living in Wellsville and in the Hammondsburg area, is assistant basketball coach at Oklahoma, serving under Bob Stevens, who is in his first season as head coach of the Sooners.

Bud is interested in East Liverpool's Dean Cline and big Jim Kress of Crestview, who was the district's top scorer this past season.

Cronin didn't realize the size of big John Naponick and rushed to Pittsburgh Tuesday night to get a glimpse of the Norwin giant in the WPIAL finals.

Cronin's visit marks the first time that Oklahoma has been represented in this area.

Bill retired from coaching at Washington (Pa.) High School, but didn't step entirely out of athletics. He is a topnotch football official and has worked two

'A' Teams Down To 41

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than nine-tenths of Ohio's 916 high school basketball teams were on the sidelines today as the survi-ors of the lose-and-out tournament trail headed into district tournament finals.

Only 41 of 445 Class AA quintets and 46 of 471 of Class AA survived the preliminary firing. All the Class AA Top Ten and four of the leaders in the Class A final

Associated Press poll were still on deck with a good chance to reach next week's "sweet sixteen" regional play.

Dresden of Muskingum County

(21-2) is the first of the cage squads to qualify for the regionals, reaching the Athens Class A regionals Thursday night with a rousing 55-33 verdict over Zanesville Rosecrans at Marietta that ended the latter's 22-game win-ing streak.

That left only Racine and North

Robinson Colonel Crawford unsuited in the smaller school contingent. Five other Class A teams will reach the regionals in tonight games along with one Class

AA squad.

Canton McKinley (18-4) plays

Canton South (18-1) tonight at Canton for the honor of being first in the larger school regionals. Mc-Kinley was the lone school to defeat South in the regular campaign.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW, EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO

Will Duffy Daugherty Be Next Irish Coach?

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Will Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty, with a built-in Fighting Irish name and mug, be Notre Dame's next football coach?

Top brass at Notre Dame were handy-man Hugh Devore was named Wednesday to a one-year interim term as successor to resigned Joe Kuharich.

Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, Notre Dame executive vice president and chairman of the athletic board, told The Associated Press:

"Several of the press seem to be recommending Mr. Daugherty, but we won't even think about a new Notre Dame head coach to succeed Devore for several months. Certainly, one won't be named until after the 1963 football season."

Daugherty's only reaction to strong Spartan campus suspicion he will accept a Notre Dame offer was: "You can speculate all you want, I have no comment."

"Notre Dame is a fine school, but the day Kuharich quit, I had a staff meeting trying to jack up our offense for next fall."

OFF THE RECORD

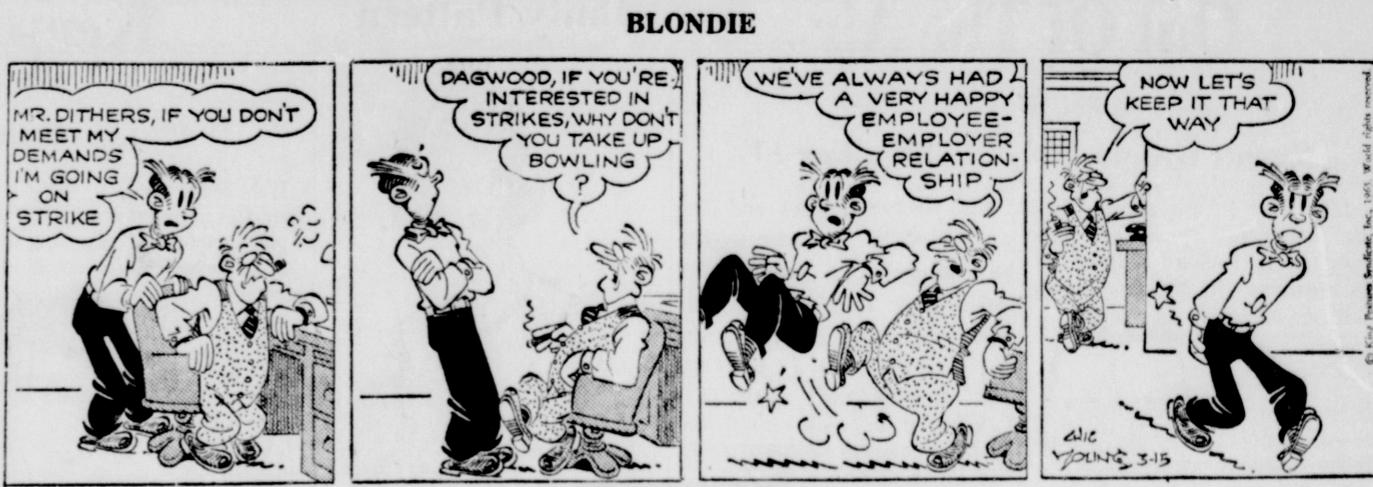

ANSWER: The moose is a strange, rough, ungainly-looking beast who looks as if he had just stepped out of the ice age. His great size gives him majesty, but with his long head and his odd nose which seems to hang over his mouth, no one could credit him with good looks. Moose get along very well in the cold northern forests which are their home. (They range from Maine to Alaska and in the Rocky Mountain region south to Wyoming.)

In summer, the long upper lip serves to scoop around in shallow water and pull up tender water plants to eat. Usually living close to water, they wade out and submerge when flies annoy them. In winter, moose live by eating buds, moss, the bark of young trees and evergreen foliage. To get at the topmost stems, they will often straddle a tree and bend it down. As midwinter blizzards make moving difficult, moose gather together in small groups. By tramping the snow a cleared area of several acres is often formed, called a "moose yard." Here they can move freely, the trees and high snow banks protecting them from the cold wind. The moose is the largest member of the deer family and, in the old world, the moose is called an "elk."

FOR YOU TO DO: How many animals are there in our picture, five? No, that's wrong. Look again.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, March 15, the 74th day of 1963. There are 291 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this day in 1697, Indians attacked the settlement of Haverhill, Mass., where they seized Hannah Dustin and her nurse and took them to live with an Indian family near Concord, N.H. Later, with the help of an English boy, the two women killed and scalped the Indians and returned to their home.

On this day—
In 1521, Ferdinand Magellan discovered the Philippine Islands.
In 1781, the Battle of Guilford

Courthouse, near Carolina, was fought.

In 1871, the city of Philadelphia instituted a paid fire department.

In 1945, Prime Minister Churchill of England predicted that World War II would be won by the end of summer that year.

Today's Birthdays:
Actor MacDonald Carey is 50.

Orchestra leader Harry James is 47.

Thought for today:

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Agents Groom World Politics For TV

After Jack Paar grabbed off all that newspaper space last week with guest Richard Nixon, reverberations immediately were felt in Hollywood's big talent agencies. High-priced show business talent suddenly was going begging.

An unimpeachable source close to the Man Man, Hal Humphrey, Moe & Max Agency ("Talent for All Occasions") said he will swear on a stack of dropped options that he overheard the following confab while eavesdropping at Schwab's drug palace:

MANNY: You're looking sad, MOE: You mean you haven't heard? Andy Williams just canceled Peggy Lee's guest shot.

MANNY: For why, pray tell? MOE: Because she couldn't do five minutes on why no air cover was used at the Bay of—excuse the expression—Pigs.

MANNY: But she's a singer! MOE: Sure! But songs they don't want any more. Excuse me now, but I got a call in for John McCone, the CIA fellow. If we can sign him before the William Morris Agency gets him, maybe I can save Manny, Moe and Max.

ACCORDING to Unimpeachable Source, similar scenes are being created all around Hollywood. The minute Ed Sullivan read the overnight Arbitron rating for the Paar-Nixon show, he tried to book Sen. Barry Goldwater, but the Arizona solar already was set for Paar's show next week.

"I had a red hot package deal to put Gov. Ross Barnett and ex-Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker on 'Candidate Camera,'" reports agent Jaffe Archibald, "but they had to back out because that square, Allen Funt, wouldn't guarantee them a segregated dinner to perform in."

There's a rumor afloat that Atty. Gen. Bobby Kennedy has been approached by NBC to fill in the vacant Wednesday night next fall when Perry Como reduces his appearances to seven shows.

THE TENTATIVE title, says Unimpeachable Source, is "Law Smoke," but the sponsors (General Electric and Teamsters Local 204) are insisting on "The Bobby Kennedy Show."

Posture Proves Clue To Aging

It's often quite a jolt so see your figure suddenly mirrored in a store window as you walk along the avenue. Thanks to the element of surprise you catch yourself quite unaware. Heavens, who is that woman, slumped in a lump, and wearing a coat just like yours!

sudden slimness, with a quick, guilty start, you pull in the stomach and throw back your shoulders. But that over-correction is all wrong, too. In a minute or two you'll settle for the old, comfortable slump—from habit.

Habit may make slumping feel easier, at the moment. Actually it's a strain since, in out of kilter posture, the wrong muscles are forced to take over tasks. When you are structurally off balance, muscles have to work harder just to hold you more or less upright.

EVEN SO, they've been holding you up, after a fashion, for more years than you care to reveal. But that's just it, slumped posture shows up the years.

Brace yourself . . . your posture grows old from the shoulder blades up. Start noticing postures and you will see this is starting truly.

Certain types of sitting and standing are so closely identified with various types of work that we have come to recognize an "occupational posture." Incredible as it may seem, years of rounding the upper back can bring on a

Postmaster Discusses

Services Of Local Office

The varied services of the city Post Office system were discussed by Postmaster Sam Brown at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

Brown said there are some 65 carriers, clerks, supervisors and maintenance men in the three city operations at the main Post Office, Smith annex and East End branch, apart from the rural routes and Calcutta contract branch.

Over $1 million in money orders were handled by the city office in 1962, and over $200,000 in other receipts.

But the main Post Office still is utilizing some of the equipment installed when the E. 5th St. building was erected in 1908, and there is a need for additional operating space.

Brown said Congress recognized the need for a new post office here in 1933, but never got around to appropriating funds, and continuing efforts are being made to secure a new building.

There are 12 foot carriers and four mounted carrier routes and 16 clerks regularly working in the offices, along with substitute and temporary carriers and clerks and other personnel.

The city Post Office is under a work measurement system by which job assignments and duties are compared with the amount of mail handled.

Clerks are given annual handling tests, and carriers are checked every year to determine if their routes include the minimum working quota. Postal inspectors also visit the Post Office annually for a check on the conditions and efficiency.

Brown said there are various classes of postal service available, and the Post Office handles other duties such as sale of stamps, registration of aliens, sale of savings stamps, checks on addresses for the Veterans Administration, Internal Revenue Service and Federal Housing Authority and aids Civil Defense and other government agencies.

In referring to the services and the various checks on Post Office efficiency, Brown said the administration procedures and systems were set up with one thing in mind: "To get the best service in mail in the shortest possible time."

Brown was introduced by Alex Kidd, program chairman.

George Marovich of Maine Blvd., manager of the Sears, Roebuck Co. store, was welcomed as a new member.

Merrill Hall, president, was in charge.
